OYSTER PIRATES

Get Worsted in a Battle in Chesapeake Bay.

TWO OF THE DREDGERS' BOATS SUNK AND ONE CAPTURED.

Battles and Government Cannon Used by the Authorities—The Pirates Return the Fire and Wound One Man—Nine of the Crew of One of the Dredgers Said to Have Been Drowned.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Dec. 13.—The steamer McLane, accompanied by Capt. T. B. C. Howard, had a severe fight with the oyster dredgers Monday night, sinking two boats, capturing one and the papers of two others. The steamer was riddled with balls, and one of the crew, Mate Charles Frazier, was shot in the arm. The Governor Thomas, Capt. Loker, was sent immediately to Capt. Howard's aid.

The McLane's twelve-pound cannon was mounted Monday night, and she started immediately for Chester river, where it was thought that illegal dredging on Fort Sidon ground was continuing. The Governor Thomas' cannon is aboard and carpenters went with it before it reached the scene of action.

The fight took place at Hell Point, at the mouth of the Chester river. To the surprise of the dredgers the captain of the McLane used his cannon as well as his rifles.

The secretary of state of Maryland has been notified from Washington that six more cannon will be sent immediately. Tuesday morning the steamers B. S. Ford and Gratitude from Chester river met the steamer McLane and the schooner Baughman conveying a captured dredger, the Maggie Corbett, to Centerville for trial. Just off Hell Point the two sunken dredgers were passed. The schooners' sails were still up and were riddled with shot.

A man dressed in blue uniform was seen on the McLane's deck, leading to the supposition that an expert gunner had been borrowed from the naval academy. A schooner was seen ashore on Carpenter's island, another on Walnut Tree bar and in Durden's creek, and a fourth on Kent island. The captain of the sloop Mahoney, which was sunk by the steamer McLane, says that nine of the crew were drowned.

OFF FOR HAYTI.

The United States Steamers Galena and Yantic Begin Their Voyage.

BROOKLYN, Dec. 13.—Every preparation was made to have the Galena leave her berth at 10:30 a.m. The sailors were all at work early putting everything shipshape. Steam was got up and the last thing to come aboard were the admiral's traps. Her fore and main-top masts were housed in order to avoid a collision with the Brooklyn bridge. The wind was blowing very hard at that hour. A horde of reporters and seamen from the other ships filled the dock.

Everything was made ready, the signal to start was given, and just as everyone was prepared to give a mighty cheer it was discovered that the Galena's stern and port bow were resting in the soft but highly tenacious mud, which forms the bottom of Cow bay. A few ineffectual tugs were given and then it was decided to wait for the rising tide. At the time of the attempted departure the tide was almost dead low. The Yantic, at the ordnance dock, had steam up and was prepared to follow the Galena.

When the tide finally made water enough to float the Galena she was warped out into the canal with the assistance of the navy yard tugs, and getting under way steamed out into the river and headed for the sea, signalling to the Yantic to follow in her wake.

Contrary to expectation the steamship Clara Bell, of the Atascos line, which got into her dock this morning, brought no news from Hayti.

Prohibitionists Encouraged.

PITTSBURG, Dec. 13.—The National executive committee of the Prohibition party was in session here to settle the accounts of the late campaign and to lay plans for the future. An itemized statement of receipts and expenditures will soon be published. The committee feels encouraged by the good showing in the recent election, and will make still more strenuous efforts for success in the future, especially in the south. The members of the committee will make a trip through the southern states as soon as possible.

Arrested at Church.

HARTFORD CITY, Ind., Dec. 13.—George Groenendyke and Dick Stump, of this city, were arrested while at church, on the charge of stealing two loads of wheat from William Carroll and Sydney R. Patterson, of this place. Young Groenendyke was walking arm in arm with his best girl, when Sheriff Wingate asked the young miss to excuse George for a moment, as he had very important business with him. George was excused. Both are in jail.

A Louisiana Lynching.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 13.—At Alexander's Station, Miss. Alice Bynum, a school teacher, and a pupil named Lewis, while passing over a trestle, were struck by the train and ground to pieces. The same train at Newport struck J. R. Goodwin, a prominent citizen of Mossy creek, and badly injured him.

Killed on a Trestle.

NEW ALBANY, Ind., Dec. 13.—At Alexander's Station, Miss. Alice Bynum, a school teacher, and a pupil named Lewis, while passing over a trestle, were struck by the train and ground to pieces. The same train at Newport struck J. R. Goodwin, a prominent citizen of Mossy creek, and badly injured him.

The River and Harbor Bill.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—The river and harbor bill for the fiscal year 1888-90 has been reported in the house. It appropriates $11,000,000.

LABOR ORGANIZATIONS.

Delegates to the St. Louis Meeting Banquet led—the Eight-Hour Day.

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 13.—The banquet tendered by the labor organizations of St. Louis to the visiting delegates lasted up to the small hours of the morning, and when at 9 o'clock President Gompers rapped for order the delegates, though bravely at their posts of duty, looked as though the good cheer and abundant eloquence of Tuesday night had necessitated a strong effort on their part to reach their seat so early. After the minutes had been adopted, President Gompers announced as the special committee on the eight-hour day: John S. Kirchener, of Philadelphia; William J. Dillon, of Pittsburgh; Henry Enorich, of New York; Frank K. Foster, of Boston; W. M. Martin, of Pittsburgh; Alex. Johnson, of Straitsville, O., and W. H. Kliver, of Chicago.

Secretary P. J. McGuire stated that he had no report to make at present, as he felt that President Gompers had covered matters of interest to the assemblage.

Distribution of documents to the proper committees was then made and a recess taken until 2 o'clock to allow the committees to get at their work.

Sherman and Foraker.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—A representative of the United Press asked Senator Sherman if he desired to make any denial of the story which has been published in almost every newspaper in the country that he would not retire from the senate to go into the cabinet of President Harrison if he thought there was any possibility of Governor Foraker succeeding him in the senate. Senator Sherman said: "I have heard this story in more diluted form than this. As far as my relations with Mr. Foraker are concerned, his coming to the senate would not affect directly or indirectly in the slightest degree my going into the state department. As to the possibility of my going into the state department, I do not care to discuss it."

Cooley on Interstate Commerce.

CHICAGO, Dec. 13.—In an interview upon the subject of the interstate commerce law, Tuesday night, Chairman Cooley, of the interstate commerce commission, said: "The commission not only favors the retention of every provision of the law as it now stands, but desires that it be made stronger. He could see no difference between tariff protected trusts and railroad trusts, and both were a menace to the welfare of the country. In resisting the law and refusing to carry it out, the railroads placed themselves on a level with Anarchists."

Butchered and Buried.

LAFAYETTE, Ala., Dec. 13.—Robert Danforth, a worthy young farmer, was found dead and buried near his home, a few miles west of this place, Tuesday morning. Gashes were found on his head, as though made with an ax. He left home with a colored man Saturday afternoon to weigh some cotton in the field, and was not seen until he was found as above stated. He had a previous difficulty with the man, Wes. Cheaholm, and all believe he is guilty of the murder. He has not been seen since Saturday.

The Dynamite Outrage.

CHICAGO, Dec. 13.—There are no new developments in the Shinfield distillery dynamite outrage, and the police are evidently as much in the dark as ever. Capt. Schaack stated to a reporter that he had made no arrests, but would express no opinion as to who the guilty parties were. In spite of the captain's denial, it is reported that there were two arrests made last night in connection with the case, and that the two men are now locked up in the station.

Mayor of Cleveland Warned.

CLEVELAND, O., Dec. 13.—Mayor Babcock received the following by mail Tuesday evening. It was written on a postal card decorated with skull and cross bones. It is believed to be a hoax.

"Unless you vindicate yourself from the suspicion of being implicated in the Ax-worthy defalcation we have to inflict the extreme penalty of our obligation."

O'SHEA, Captain White Caps."

Bridge Projects Approved.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—The president has approved the act for the building of a bridge or bridges across the Mississippi river at LaCross, Wis., and the act authorizing the construction of bridges across the Kentucky river and tributaries by the Richmond, Nicholasville, Irvine & Beattyville Railroad company. These are the first two bills signed at this session of congress.

Child Labor in Ohio.

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 13.—State Inspector of Workshops and Factories Dorn will next week begin regular investigation of the importation of child labor from New York into Ohio. He will begin at Findlay where most children are employed. Dorn will urge the legislature to pass a law attaching a penalty for this kind of business.

A Torturer of Animals Sentenced.

TAYLORVILLE, Ill., Dec. 13.—Charles F. Henderson, a veterinary surgeon, was sentenced Tuesday to twenty-eight years in the penitentiary for torturing about forty or fifty horses with sulphuric acid and croton oil during the progress of a political meeting held here November 3. Henderson made a confession in court.

Fell Into a Fly-Wheel.

HUNTINGTON, Ind., Dec. 13.—Adam L. Cramer, an employee in Kanoway's furniture factory in this city, met a horrible death Tuesday. While putting on a belt he fell into the fly-wheel and was torn almost to pieces, and died within two hours after the accident. Cramer leaves a family in poor circumstances.

Motweller's Murderer.

NEW ALBANY, Ind., Dec. 13.—The coroner's investigation of the Motweller murder results in an indictment for murder in the first degree against William Benson, the hired hand. Mrs. Motweller rallied sufficiently to tell the story of the crime. She recovered.

Coal Breaker Burned.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Dec. 13.—The hillside coal breaker, a mammoth building owned by the Hillside Coal company, at Moosic, was entirely destroyed by fire yesterday evening, causing a loss of $90,000, and throwing 300 men out of work.

ARMED TROOPS

Remain on Guard About the Birmingham Jail.

FURTHER TROUBLE ANTICIPATED BY THE AUTHORITIES.

Sheriff Smith Released on a Bond of $25,000, But is Almost Immediately Arrested Charged With Murdering One of the Victims of Saturday Night's Riot.

The Troops to Remain.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Dec. 13.—Peace now seems established. All apprehension of a revival of hostilities against the prisoners or officials has disappeared and confidence in that President Gompers had covered matters of interest to the assemblage.

Distribution of documents to the proper committees was then made and a recess taken until 2 o'clock to allow the committees to get at their work.

Sherman and Foraker.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—Sheriff Smith has been released on $25,000 bond and has been personally congratulated by Governor Seay for his fearless discharge of an unpleasant duty.

The colored men, Jeff Brown and Henry Martin, testified before the coroner that they found the Hawes trunk lying open on the side of the mountain. It is generally believed that as the trunk had blood stains on it, little Irene was carried in it and buried some where near the place it was found, and that the men know more about it than they will tell. Martin was seen on Sunday morning with a large roll of money.

The work of draining East lake is progressing as rapidly as possible.

Leading citizens called on the governor and asked him to remove the militia, and pledged him that the people would assist the sheriff in maintaining order in the event of any further outbreak.

LATER—The sheriff was re-arrested Tuesday night on another charge issued by Justice Winkley, on the affidavit of J. M. McMaster, who swore out the first warrant. Sheriff Smith is charged with murdering P. P. McCoy.

The troops have been ordered to remain, as further trouble is apprehended.

ENTERPRISING FELONS.

TENNESSEE Convicts Manufacture Weapons and Money for Their Own Use.

NASHVILLE, Dec. 13.—For some time Warden Pearcey, of the penitentiary, has been having a search made of all the cells and clothing of all the convicts, which developed rather startling results. In the cells and on the persons of the convicts were found over two hundred knives, nearly fifty razors, a pistol and a large amount of counterfeit money. The ladle and metal for the making of the counterfeit money were also found, but the models, or dies, were missing. The knives were of every shape and pattern, many of them ugly weapons, and nearly all of home manufacture. The fact that in the recent attempted outbreak the convicts were armed suggested the search to Warden Pearcey.

Pay for United States Marshals.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—The house judiciary committee has directed a favorable report to the house on the Rogers resolution inquiring of the attorney general whether, in his opinion, any delay will result in the administration of the law by the proviso attached to the appropriation for payment of fees and expenses of United States marshals. The proviso reads: "That not exceeding $300,000 may be advanced to marshals to be accounted for in the usual way, the residue to remain in the treasury to be paid, if at all, only in payment of accounts of marshals in the manner provided in section 556 revisited statutes."

A Whole Family Cremated.

CHICAGO, Dec. 13.—A dispatch from Cookville gives the outlines of a terrible affair that occurred there Tuesday. At 4 a.m. in the residence of John R. King was burned, and King, his wife and six children perished. It was thought that the fire was incendiary, and that some of the victims were murdered. The eight bodies were taken from the ruins and buried in one grave. The family recently came from Alabama.

DAILY, EXCEPT SUNDAY.
ROSSER & McCARTHY,
Proprietors.

THURSDAY EVE., DEC. 13, 1888.

The grand jury of Mercer County, W. Va., has recently reported seven hundred indictments for illegal voting. Two of the indictments are against the Prosecuting Attorney of that county. The Republican majority was unusually large in Mercer at the late election. Draw your own conclusions.

The National Carpet Weavers' Union is kicking because there has been a reduction of some of the weavers' wages. We learn elsewhere that the carpet manufacturers have advanced the price on certain grades of their goods. With a reduction of wages on one hand and an increase in the price of their product, these carpet manufacturers ought to soon get back what they contributed to the National Republican Committee's corruption fund.

FOTHERINGHAM has compromised his suit against the Adams Express Company for damages for arresting and throwing him in prison for the great train robbery at St. Louis a few years ago when the company lost $100,000. He obtained judgement for $20,000 but the company appealed. He now accepts $8,000, and the suit has been filed away. Witrock, alias "Jim Cummings," is in the "pen" for the robbery, and with the compromise of Fotheringham's suit the last act in the famous case has probably been played.

MERCANTILE pursuits are all well enough, but a town will not build up on them. It might be said, and truthfully too, that this class of business is overdone here in Maysville, at least in some branches of trade. We don't wish, now, to be misunderstood on this point. We are not uttering any complaints, but what we want to suggest is, that it would be far better for Maysville if more attention was devoted here to manufacturing and not so much to merchandising. Let us have more factories, and if the stores are needed they will follow.

THE next election for Governor is a long ways off yet, but many of the papers throughout the State are already grooming their favorite. They should not be in too big a hurry. In referring to the matter the Louisville Times says: "There is a LaFoon boom in Western Kentucky and a Hagar boom in the East, a Clay and a Harris boom in the Bluegrass and several other booms in the various other sections of the State. There is plenty of timber in the old Commonwealth of which to fashion a Governor and the early bird has set the pace."

We understand that many of the boots and shoes sold in the stores here in this city are turned out by the factories at Portsmouth. There are three such factories at Portsmouth, all erected of late years.

Maysville has a richer country surrounding her than Portsmouth, and our advantages for manufacturing are as great, if not greater. Cheap gas and fuel, as fine water works as can be found anywhere, low taxes and splendid shipping facilities are some of the inducements we can offer to manufacturers seeking a location.

THERE is much talk at present of admitting certain of the Territories to the sisterhood of States, and this will likely be done at no distant day.

The following figures are published as a summary of the official census of the Territories named:

Dakota	700,000
Utah	210,000
Washington	188,992
New Mexico	178,000
Montana	140,000
Idaho	145,000
Wyoming	85,000
Arizona (census of 1882)	82,976

"The proposition of the Republicans," says the Covington Commonwealth, is to make two States out of Dakota, not for Dakota's or the country's good, but to get two more Republican Senators; and, with the two Dakotas, to admit Washington, Montana and Idaho, leaving New Mexico out in the cold because there is a possibility that it would be a Democratic State. The figures emphasize the shameful story of partisan manipulation of public business, of which the Republican press and politicians have the effrontery to boast."

That's about the size of this whole matter. Republicans are trying to strengthen their party by cutting Dakota in two and keeping New Mexico out. Democrats have opposed this from the first, but rather than delay the question longer, they will probably consent to the division of Dakota, but will insist on bringing New Mexico in with the rest.

California has caught the Australian disease of too many rabbits. To get rid of them they have great "rabbit drives," surrounding a large tract and frightening the pests all in toward the center, where they are killed. At a recent "drive" three thousand rabbits were slaughtered.

The New York World says: "The steamer Tower Hill has sailed for London with 342 cattle included 328 Kentucky Shorthorn steers from Bourbon County, that averaged at home 1,823 pounds, for which Mr. Goldsmith paid Mr. C. Alexander some weeks ago, about 6 cents per pound, live weight at home, and which, when landed in London, will stand the owner, Mr. Goldsmith, $140 per head.

RALPH PEARCE died at Cincinnati this week at the age of fifty years. He was a son of the late Samuel Pearce, of this city. The Enquirer says: "He married well and began with fine prospects. At one time he was worth $100,000, but misfortune overtook him in business and he became dissipated. He lost money and friends, and finally his wife was forced to leave him. He was sent to the hospital with pneumonia last Saturday and died Monday. His widow, a nurse at Longview, has claimed the body and will give it respectable interment."

Porter-Oliver.

Mr. Jno. W. Porter and Miss Amelia Oliver were quietly married yesterday at 1 p. m. at the residence of the officiating minister Rev. R. B. Garrett. The happy couple were passengers on the Kentucky Central train that left shortly afterwards for Cincinnati. They will spend a few days of their honeymoon in the Queen City.

The groom is connected with the well-known undertaking firm of Myall & Shackleford, and has been associated with the leading firms in that line of business for several years.

Of a quiet, unassuming disposition he enjoys the respect and esteem of all, and is worthy of the lovely bride he has won. The couple have the warmest congratulations of their many friends.

SAME OLD STORY.

An Eloement From Fayette Followed by a Double Wedding.

Muir Station, Fayette County, furnishes a sensation by the elopement of two brothers with two sisters. The Paris Kentuckian says: "Adam Hauck moved from Brown County, Ohio, some time since to the farm of R. B. Hutchcraft. He brought with him his family, including two most interesting young ladies, aged sixteen and nineteen years. There also lived on Mr. Hutchcraft's place in another house Sam and Wm. Briley, and the two brothers soon became fascinated with the two sisters. 'Pap' objected to the young ladies keeping company with the young men, and forbade their visiting his house. But they would not be outdone.

"There was a spring on the place, from which each family obtained water, and a big rock near by was converted into a postoffice. The girls would place their letters under this rock, and the boys would read them and then place their answer there. Finally it was agreed that they should elope from the parental roof, and to make a long story short, they did so. Monday they worked hard with their father stripping tobacco, and that night escaped from the second story window and eloped with their lovers. One of the girls was in her bare feet, but her fiancé pulled off his boots and she wore them, while he pulled an extra pair of shoes from his pocket and wore them. They eloped to Cincinnati where they were married.

"Their father is an excellent old gentleman, and greatly grieved, and telegraphed Tuesday to the Chief of Police of Maysville and Covington to stop the runaways, but they could not be caught."

CASSA Lodge No. 24, F. and A. M., colored, held their annual meeting last night and elected the following officers:

Take Your Medicine.

Several days ago, some grocery peddlers made a canvass of this country, and took large orders from the farmers. These orders are now being delivered, and many of the farmers are kicking like work steers, claiming that the goods do not come up to the sample. This is wrong; they should take their medicine like little men and not say a word. If the farmers will bring in their cash to our city merchants, they can get better bargains for their money than elsewhere.—Bourbon News.

Same here, and a farmer who buys from a traveling grocer and gets "skinned" oughtn't complain.

An Excellent Company.

Frank Kilday and company opened a three-nights' engagement at Louisville Monday in "The Streets of New York." The Courier-Journal says: "A large audience was present, and the performance was enjoyed, the comedy part of Dan, Mr. Frank L. Frayne, Jr., and the light, devil-may-care Tom Badger of Mr. Kilday pleasantly relieving the pathos and sentiment of Lucy Fairweather, Miss Alice Endres, and of Mrs. Fairweather. The leading lady, Miss Laura Palmer, assumed the roles Alida Bloodgood and Mrs. Fairweather very creditably, they being representative of two distinct and extreme dispositions. The fire scene in the third act was very realistic, and Mr. Frayne, with his banjo and harmonica solos, was given several encores. Mrs. Lutie Page Mower, who has often been here before, was funnier than ever, as fat Mrs. Puffy, and Ned, the policeman, of Mr. H. Morton was very good."

Mr. Kilday and company will appear at the opera house here next Saturday night in the above play. Reserved seats at Taylor's.

A DENUNCIATION

Of Great Britain's African Policy Promised.

ZULUS AND KAFFIRS GOOD TARGETS FOR RIFLE PRACTICE.

Alexandria Was Bombed Merely to Test Their Guns—The English Army Greatly Degenerated—The Irish Will Not Enlist—The Czar Offended at Germany—Other Foreign Notes.

LONDON, Dec. 13.—We are promised a still more scathing denunciation of the government's African policy than the sharp attack made by Lord Randolph Churchill a few days ago in the house of commons, which created such a feeling of dismay in the ranks of the administration. There is a fine opportunity for it, and it will be availed of, though, of course, no English politician of the present generation would dare to tell the whole truth about the course pursued by Great Britain for many years in both the southern and northern portions of the dark continent.

Of course, such people as Zulus and Kaffirs are simply regarded as furnishing excellent rifle practice for the British soldiers, and their territory as merely a capital hunting ground, but aggressions in that quarter are not so popular since the awkward meeting with these inconsiderate people, the Boers, who had the impoliteness to get the best of the shooting.

The army and navy must make some show for the enormous expense the government is at to maintain them. New great guns and small arms are being introduced, and experiments, very much to the discomfort of some weak nation, must be made in order to test them thoroughly. The perfectly needless bombardment of Alexandria was begun in order to find out the weak and strong points of the new guns and their ammunition, and the invasion of the Soudan was undertaken partly to furnish some favorite officers with an opportunity to gain promotion and partly because it was considered time to make British arms felt in some quarters of the world.

The result was hardly satisfactory, in one sense, but it was fortunately discovered that the side arms furnished by the honest (?) English contractors were of such a miserable quality that against a civilized foe the battles would have proved disastrous defeat.

The determination to save Suakin is now generally believed to foreshadow another advance into Upper Egypt. The place is only valuable as a point of approach to the Soudan region, and rumor predicts an attempt in force to recover Khartoum, whose retention by the predatory natives has ruined the important trade that was slowly improving the country and people. The venture will encounter much opposition in parliament, and military authorities are not charmed with the prospect.

There is no doubt that the British army has seriously deteriorated. The Irish will not enlist; there is much trouble in keeping the Scotch regiments filled, and the desirability of English will not enter the service at all. Those who offer themselves do so through despair at finding no other means of existence open to them, and, as might be surmised, are poor specimens of humanity, physically and morally. This is not the material with which to undertake a campaign that would thoroughly test the standing and morals of the best of troops, and it is not strange that many high officers privately protest against undertaking it.

The press censorship at Suakin is growing more rigid daily and it is rapidly becoming apparent that reliable news from that quarter can no longer be obtained unless it happens to be of a character especially favorable to the government's policy. It is rumored in military circles that the Egyptian troops behaved so badly in the recent sortie that their almost absolute worthlessness was confirmed and this is held to be an ample explanation of the government's sudden resolve to reinforce the garrison.

It is well remembered that the disastrous defeat of Baker Pasha, in the former Soudan campaign, was wholly due to the cowardice of the Egyptian troops under his command, and the British military officer of to-day who places any reliance whatever upon the bravery of the Egyptian soldiery must be regarded as totally inexperienced.

Germany's East African Policy.

BERLIN, Dec. 1.—Count Herbert Bismarck's expected exposition of the government's policy in east Africa was made to the foreign committee of the reichstag Tuesday. He declared that the government would take measures for the permanent security of the German possession in east Africa, but it was not in a position to submit a positive plan demanding the attention of the committee. He trusted, he said, that the reichstag would show sympathy with commercial enterprises in east Africa, an expression which was taken to mean that the government would incline to support the East African company's volunteer land project. Count Herbert further said that the number of the Arab insurgents was nothing like so large as was supposed.

He advocated Lieut. Wissmann's going to the relief of Emin Pasha, saying that the funds required for the expedition bore no proportion to the immense amounts invested by other nations upon similar enterprises. The impression left by Count Herbert's statement is that the government's plans are not matured and that Prince Bismarck is still corresponding with Lord Salisbury regarding the land operations.

Semi-official articles are appearing in periodical newspapers, and have been reproduced prominently in the North German Gazette to the effect that Germany now accepts the fact of a war with the Arabs in east Africa, that it is impossible to restrict the action of the blockade, and that the emperor must support the land operations, as the German company has not the necessary resources. Besides, the articles point out, success will benefit not the company alone, but all the Germans in east Africa and all the European traders.

More definite explanation of the government's policy will be obtained in the reichstag on Friday when the debate takes place on Herr Windthorst's motion relative to the suppression of the slave trade.

Lieut. Wissmann's preparations will be completed in a week. He proposes to start for Zanzibar in fortnight and has presented a report to the emperor on the route and prospects of the expedition. The international conference on the slave trade has been dropped, mainly because of the efforts on the part of the Catholic leaders to dominate the congress. They insist that the pope should nominally preside.

The American Commonwealth.

LONDON, Dec. 13.—"The American Commonwealth," Professor Bryce's book, in three big volumes, is given unexpected prominence by the London press. It is not only treated as the most important study of the subject since De Tocqueville, but as the greatest work of recent years in the whole field of serious literature. Bryce speaks of the lower tone of public life in America. He finds in America a certain commonness of mind and tone, a want of dignity and elevation in and about the conduct of public affairs, an insensibility of the nobler aspects and finer responsibilities of National life.

The Pall Mall Gazette calls the book the event of the year in the literary world, and says it is the busiest men who write the best books. The News, in its review, has a sustained eulogy of American institutions and the people, while the Tory Standard, which for the past six months has been curiously atrabilious over everything American, from our women to our canned meats, takes the opportunity for a long and surly diatribe against Democracy in general and American politics and manners in particular.

German Papers offend the Czar.

BERLIN, Dec. 13.—The czar, through his ambassador at Berlin, Count Paul Schouvaloff, has expressed irritation at the German hostility to the Russian loan. Count Shouvaloff was specially called to Gatchina last week to explain why the German semi-official press attacked the loan. In the course of the interview the czar said that the efforts to defeat the loan must be stopped if friendly relations between himself and Emperor William were desired; that the language of the German papers was personally offensive, and that he would hold the Berlin government responsible for it.

Belgian Aristocracy Agitated.

BRUSSELS, Dec. 13.—Belgian aristocratic society is terribly agitated over the discovery that the editor of the Almanach De Gotha for 1889, has erroneously published the marriage of the countess of Carriera, fourth daughter of the prince of Cuijnsay, to Alphonse Wauters, member of the Royal Academy of Fine Arts in Brussels. The prospect of the marriage has hitherto been a subject of gossip, and it is supposed the editor of the Almanach have been imposed upon by unscrupulous persons.

The Pope Creates a Sensation.

ROME, Dec. 13.—A tremendous sensation has been created here by the refusal of his holiness, the pope, to bless a number of medals and reliques sent him by an Irish priest for the papal benediction before distribution in Ireland. In refusing to perform the act the pope sternly said: "I cannot bless them. The people of Ireland are disobedient. They seem to prefer the gospel of Dillon and O'Brien to the gospel of Jesus Christ."

Thomas Maroney Partially Insane.

DUBLIN, Dec. 13.—Bishop Kimberley and Mr. Patrick O'Brien, member of parliament, recently paid a visit to Thomas Maroney, who has been in jail nearly two years for contempt of court in refusing to testify in the case of the Herbertstown tenants. They declare that Maroney is in a semi-mad state and his hair has turned snow white from the effects of his imprisonment.

LUCK IN LIFE.

The Finer Inner Sense of the So Called "Lucky" Person.

It was mentioned recently that some person had drawn $15,000 in a lottery. There are such instances from time to time, but when one comes to reflect upon it he perceives that the prizes were won from those who had contributed to buy the tickets. This is one form of luck most people understand; that is, they see that there is nothing inherent in the individual that causes the success. A man throws sixes, or he draws the highest prize, and nothing can be said, except that it is his luck. And so in all the phases of life, some men are born great, some achieve greatness and others have greatness thrust upon them. If his ship sinks he is saved in the long boat; if his bauk breaks he has withdrawn his accounts.

But there is a luck different from this, and it has been often noted. One man goes through life and everything he does turns to gold. Another man, under the same circumstances, apparently, goes the same way, and everywhere he does turns to ashes. Why is this? No one can explain it. For want of a better name it may be called luck, but this does not solve the problem. It might seem as if luck was a finer inner sense that enabled its possessor to take in certain business situations and act on them accordingly; that by means of it men see better and clearer, and without being able to explain why they do this or that, go forward and achieve success. Just look at it for a moment. Here is one man who loses his train by half a minute and an engagement that might have made him rich. Running for office, he is defeated by two votes. Applying for a place, he finds it given away the day before he applied. He speculates in stocks, and no sooner buys but the stock goes down. He sells the wheat crop, and the price goes up. He has a natural tendency to get on the wrong side, and when prices fall he is long, and when they rise he is short. On all sides, metaphorically and actually, he is cheated, robbed, snubbed and kicked.

On the other hand, the lucky man is always on the other side, and no matter what may be the market, or how affairs may turn out, he falls like a cat on all fours. There is no more striking instance in respect to this matter than the career of Gen. Grant. Great general as he was, how many, many instances there were when he seemed to cross the flood "on the uncertain footing of a spear." And, concerning advancement, who could have presumed in 1860 that the obscure tanner of Galena would be president of the United States eight years later and the most distinguished man of modern times? This may be called luck, but it is a luck inherent in certain individuals, making them equal to the occasion they meet. It is, in fact, a sixth sense born with the individual, just as the talent for poetry or oratory is born with certain men. It is better to be born lucky than rich, says the old proverb, and history abundantly gives it the proof.—Chicago Herald.

Socialists Set Down On.

CHICAGO, Dec. 13.—The Socialistic Turner society of Lake View, circulated printed cards Tuesday, announcing a free entertainment for Friday evening at Lincoln Turner hall. The program consists of a lecture and a free discussion from the Socialists. One of these cards came to the hands of Mayor Goldwater, who immediately notified the manager of the Turner hall to inform the Socialists that the hall would not be opened for the entertainment. He further said that he would send word to the committee that they should not arrange for any more meetings, for none would be permitted while he was mayor of Lake View.
